

CRAB ORCHARD.

—"Christmas, Christmas, happy time!" is past and gone. The record for the year is closed forever. The New Year dawns. Let us keep the leaves for the New Year clean and pure.

—There was a union Christmas tree at the Christian church on Tuesday night. The tree was handsomely decorated and everyone present seemed to be remembered with nice gifts from its heavily laden branches.

—Those who are fond of "The Beautiful" are certainly more than gratified with this "White Christmas," but my heart goes out for suffering, helpless humanity, and I pray—"God pity the poor when it snows."

—The young people of our town have had a quiet but pleasant Christmas as there have been several charming visitors in our midst during the holidays. The severity of the weather prevented many anticipated festivities.

—Mr. Will Anderson, of Mossy Creek, Tenn., filled the pulpit in the Baptist church Sunday. Quite a large gathering of delegates and friends of the Baptist brethren was expected to attend the district association of the Baptist church here on Saturday and Sunday, but the inclemency of the weather prevented many from attending.

—Miss Mary Dudderar, of Stanford, is visiting the family of Mr. J. H. Stephens. Miss Mattie Sullivan, of Mt. Sterling, will be for a few weeks, the pleasant guest of Miss Rena Stapp. Mrs. J. E. Carson entertained a number of friends on Thursday. Her table groined under a 35 pound turkey, together with many other good things of the season. Miss Besse played the hostess very gracefully.

—John Edmiston, of Georgetown College, spent the holidays with his father, Hon. D. B. Edmiston. Miss Katie Simpson, of Lancaster, has been visiting Miss Lizzie Beazley. Miss Bettie Lawrence, of Preachersville, is the guest of Miss Bettie McGee. Miss Bettie Wright, of Brodhead, is spending a few days with Mr. Payne's family. Messrs. John, Joe and Will Brooks were welcome visitors to their mother and sister, Mrs. Brooks and Miss Mollie. Dr. Fain and family, of Garrard, will take possession of Mrs. Ward's property, Jan. 1st. Mrs. Phillips, of Dripping Springs, has rented rooms of Mr. John Buchanan and moved to them.

Christmas at the Keeley.

At the conclusion of a business letter from a friend of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, who is now sojourning at Crab Orchard Springs, he adds:

On Christmas Eve, a huge evergreen tree, from the forests of Mt. Lebanon was planted in the large and commodious parlors of the hotel, tipped, all over with bright lights and snowy drapery, and on it was hung, costly and handsome and useful presents, appropriate to the occasion, from the humblest employee of the hotel, to the beautiful and bright eyed ladies who graced the festive occasion, not forgetting the gentleman who are now "habitating" this famous resort, for their own, and "their country's good." On the day of the "Nativity," that king of hotel managers and prince of good fellows, Mr. Gus Hofmann, spread a banquet in the spacious dining hall that Lucullus, in his marble palaces of Rome, never dreamed of; and as course succeeded course, he would have wished with Helioabab, that his neck was a "Stadia" long, that he might the more enjoy the nectars and ambrosias that loaded our tables—for, with the exception of humming bird brains, every delicacy and luxury this continent affords was spread before us in lavish profusion.

—W. R. Smith's College, Lexington, Ky., is where clerks, farmer boys, and others have invested $90 for tuition and board for an education and are getting $100 and over a month now. This is a responsible college. Special attention given to securing situations for graduates. Write for circulars to Prof W. R. Smith, Lexington, Ky.

—Louisville suffered a disastrous fire Friday night. The large wholesale houses of Stucky, Brent & Co., and J. H. Quash & Co., on Main street were totally destroyed, while J. M. Robinson, Norton & Co. suffered $157,785 loss. Numerous other firms suffered more or less severely, the total loss being estimated at $383,955, pretty well covered with insurance.

—The Delevan House, the popular hotel of Albany, N. Y., was destroyed by fire, loss $500,000. There were many narrow escapes.

—The noted Cliff House at San Francisco burned.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions. It positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by A. R. Penny, Stanford, Ky.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottle free at A. R. Penny's Drug Store. Register size 50c and $2.00.

LANCASTER, CARRARD COUNTY.

—Miss Alberta Anderson entertained a few friends Thursday evening.

—Mr. Will Walden filled the pulpit Sunday at the Christian church.

—Mrs. Clayton Arnold has bought Mr. Dick Burnside's place on Danville Ave. for $2,000.

—Mr. Owen Shugars gave an elegant party Friday evening. Dancing was participated in and a fine supper served. All enjoyed the evening immensely.

—The lawyers have received the docket for the January term of the court of appeals. Hon. A. Adams, clerk, is an excellent officer, prompt in the discharge of his duties and kind and courteous to the members of the bar.

—Thursday, St. John's day, the following officers were elected and installed at Lancaster Lodge, No. 104, A. Y. M. for the ensuing year: Wm. Herndon, W. M.; Dock Walker, S. W.; J. Joseph, J. W.; W. B. Mason, Sec'y; R. Kinnaird, Treas.

—All that can be done is to keep up roaring fires and shiver until the power of Boreas is exhausted. The only consolation we have is the fact that the weather will not be likely to tempt the fruit buds, to be killed by the early frosts. It is a good time for the exercise of charity in providing for the wants of the poor at this cold and inclement spell that has visited every part of the land.

—There are at least a dozen crowing roosters on Richmond street that could well be dispensed with. They all crow in different keys; one venerable old Shanghai furnishing the bass for the whole brood. It is said that "the rooster would be a much more popular bird if he could only be induced to feel that there is no real, vital necessity for his reporting his whereabouts between midnight and 3 A. M. We know that he is at home in the bosom of his family. So are we, but we do not get up in the night to brag about it." If there is any chicken raiser who can explain why roosters crow at night, it is now in order for him to do so.

—Miss Ada Fox, of Eton, O., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Jake Joseph. Mrs. Mat Hopper is visiting Mrs. Ellen Owsley. Mr. Ernest Brown returned to Louisville Sunday. Mr. J. R. Brown, of Chicago, spent Xmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eph. Brown. Mr. Howard Bruce, of Danville, is visiting his cousin, Miss Mabel Royston. Miss Mary Miller is visiting in Lawrenceburg. Miss Della Hughes is spending a few days in Marksburg. Mr. Wade Bush spent the holidays with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Bush. Mr. Charley Anderson gave a dance at the hotel Wednesday evening. Mr. Kee Kinnaird, of Middleboro, is visiting relatives here.

—A party of hunters from Breesh, Colorado, killed 702 rabbits in one day's hunt.

—Paul Schatt, a saloon keeper at Omaha, Neb., committed suicide by freezing himself to death in his ice box.

—Mrs. Pauline Castleman, of Louisville, rolled on her five weeks old child while asleep and mashed it to death.

—A post mortem examination of John Kline, who dropped dead at Springfield, O., showed that a part of his heart had turned to stone.

—Mrs. Dora Williams, of Rome, Ga., locked her three children in her home and went visiting. The result was her house and all the children were burned.

—The number of failures reported by Dun's Agency during the year up to the close of business yesterday was 14,292 against 15,242 last year, with liabilities of $163,238,404, as compared with $346,779,889 last year. During 1894 there were 598 bank suspensions.

—Hon. John W. Foster, the well-known American diplomatist, has been called upon by the Chinese government to assist the Chinese commissioners in the peace negotiations with Japan. Mr. Foster has accepted the mission and will start to Japan within a few days.

—The weather bureau says that in 1893 about 5,000 lives were lost and $10,000,000 of property destroyed in consequence of atmospheric disturbances. During 1894 such disturbances have been less frequent, and not more than 40 or 50 people have lost their lives on account of them.

OF A LOCAL NATURE.

—A new company of State guards at Frankfort has honored itself by adopting the name "McCreary Guards."

—George Royce, a farmer of Madison county, was struck by a passenger train near Riverside, and instantly killed. Many think he was murdered and robbed, but the coroner's jury decided otherwise.

—The scaffold on which William Taylor, the negro murderer of David Doty, will be executed is being erected in the jail yard at Richmond. It is arranged so that everybody can get a benefit of the harrowing spectacle.

—The death of Col. Zeb Ward in Little Rock removes one of the most typical if not the highest type of Kentuckians.

—Four inches of snow had fallen in Alabama at last accounts and it was still snowing.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—Joe Patchen has won over $13,000 this year.

—George Baker bought in Pulaski last week 12 2 and 3 year-old cattle at 2½c.

—The Paris Kentuckian reports sales of 98 cattle 1,428 to 1,521 pounds at 1½c. —Simmons, 2,28, has six of his produce in the 2:15 list and 51 in the 2:30 list.

—Sixty-five 2 year-olds went in 2:30 or better in 1894, Oakland Baron 2:14½ being the fastest.

—Wm. Moreland bought of J. F. Cast, J. F. Gover and H. T. Bush a lot of 200 pound hogs at 3.00.

—Abe Coleman, of Mercer, sold to Stevenson Bros., of Philadelphia, his mare, Grannette, 2:24½, for $1,000.

—The celebrated stallion Phyllis, bred at Lexington and owned by J. I. Case, died at Racine, Wis., Thursday night.

—The Cumberland Park Club of Nashville will hold a 24 day running meeting beginning April 1st. Over $50,000 will be hung up.

—Budd Doble says that Fantasy, 2:06, will lower her mark next season, but that she is not the racer either Nancy Hanks or Alix is.

—Fifty-nine pacers have records of 2:10 or better, two of which are two-year olds, while 33 trotters have records of 2:10 or better.

—Crit Davis drove and lost his first race in 1897, using a sulky weighing 180 pounds, with large springs, the same as now used on a buggy.

—Alix tried to lower her record of 2:03½ at Los Angeles, California, but could do no better than 2:05. Directly, 2:07½, went a mile in 2:08.

—The $10,000 Spreckles Handicap at San Francisco was won by Col. Jack Chinn's colt Liseak. The track was nearly a foot deep with mud.

—George Cravens sold 500½ barrels of corn Monday to Gray Bros., for D. L. Moore, of Harrodsburg, at $2.03 per bl., delivered at Garrett's Station.—Woodford Sun.

—The total movement of cotton since the beginning of the season up to the close of business Saturday was 6,732,686 bales, against 5,366,967 last year, and 4,697,430 the year before.

—An experienced race horse man says the expense of training a trotter or pacer may be figured at $100 at the home track or double that amount on the campaign.

—Emperor Wilkes, 2:20½, bay stallion, eight years old, by William L., dam Pilot Anna, by Pilot Jr., has been sold by O. H. Chenault, Richmond, Ky., to Geo. W. Leavitt, Boston, for $5,000.

—The Richmond Register says that J. W. Bales bought in Chicago for Hume & Co., 414 A 1 cattle for slop. Bales also shipped to Baltimore 225½ cattle, 1,500 pounds average, bought in the county at 4½c.

—M. J. Farris bought of John Tewmeyer his farm of 200 acres, well improved, on the Perryville pike, at $82.50. Farris & Whitley bought of James Slaughter 40 shoats, 90 pounds average at 3½.—Advocate.

—A single ranch in Wyoming is six times as big as Rhode Island. Its dimensions are 75 by 100 miles, and it is stocked with 2,000 horses, 15,000 cattle and 120,000 sheep. The ex-Senator Warren.

—Henry Kenney, of Hartford, Conn., in his will stated that $3 per week of his fortune should go for the maintenance of his horse that he had driven for years, and that under no circumstances should he be made to work.

This is the way it used to be.

Girls can knit,
And girls can spin,
And girls can play croquet,
But they can not strike matches
On the seals of their pantises,
Because they're not built that way.
The revised edition by Puck is as follows:

The bloomer girls who ride the bike
Can now indulge in smoking, too
Since they at last a match can strike
The same way that their brothers do.

—The whole face of the earth is sickened over with a pale cast of snow. The grass pastures have turned to an invisible green and the cornfields are shocked at their own whiteness.—Louisville Times.

—The skeleton of a mammoth, 40 feet long and 10 feet high, has been found near Sioux Falls, S. Dak. One of the teeth taken at Sioux Falls is 11½ inches long and five inches across.

—Bob Ingersoll once said that he wouldn't believe there was a hell until Missouri went republican, and now the Iowa (Mo.) Register demands that he redeem his pledges.

—In four years 26,000 men and women have taken their lives in France.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism; his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

—Arch Francis and Miss Mecie Horton took each other for better or worse last week at Point Pleasant church.

—Wm. Smiley, 21, and Miss Annie E. Stephens, 19, were married by Rev. A. V. Sizemore on Christmas day.

—Logan Walls and Miss Maggie Gooch gave each other a Christmas gift and will hereafter do business in partnership.

—President Cleveland's Christmas gift to his wife was a pair of side combs, each having 14 diamonds glittering in it.

—W. H. Pepples and Miss Amelia Quatemus drove to Elder J. G. Livingston's on the 26th and were made one by that gentleman.

—Mr. George W. Clark and Mrs. Sarah Ismael, aged 72 years each, and both twice married before, entered into the third venture in Nicholas county Christmas day.

—Miss May Ella King, the pretty daughter of Mr. W. H. King, formerly of this county, but now of Winchester, was married in Jeffersonville to Mr. Harry Ibing, a merchant of Milwaukee, Wis.

—Alexander Williamson and William Perry, of Coalburg, Ala., loved the same girl and decided to settle their claims to her hand by fighting it out. They fought, but neither will get her. They are both dead as a result of the encounter.

—Joseph F. Baker and Miss Daisy Carey, the pretty daughter of Mrs. Fannie Carey, of Kingsville, were married at the Christian church at that place Wednesday night. The bride is said to be an excellent lady while the groom is a splendid young business man.

—At Mr. E. P. Woods' on the 26th, Miss Laila Hays and Mr. J. L. Crady were bound in wedlock's holy chains by Rev. A. V. Sizemore. They took the train the same day and after a visit to the groom's relatives in Kentucky, will make their home in Nashville, where he is in business. The bride is the last single daughter of Mrs. Pauline Hays and is a very excellent young lady, besides being a very pretty one.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Dr. Wharton's revival at Hopkinsville closed with 30 additions to the Baptist church.

—Bro. J. H. Julian has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Pleasureville church.—Western Recorder.

—The World's W. O. T. U. has decided to present a polyglot petition to the United States government against the legalization of the liquor traffic.

—The First Baptist church of Chattanooga, Tenn. was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. It was the handsomest structure in the city, and cost $100,000.

—The Bible Society Record states that the combined circulation of the American, the British and the Foreign Bible Societies has passed the 200,000,000 mark.

—Dr. B. Carradine, who stirred up the natives here with his emotional religion, will begin a meeting at London, on the 8th. Rev. Pickett will lead the singing.

—A Los Angeles preacher prayed that a certain young lady of his church might be cleansed from sin and the next day she brought suit against him for $25,000 damages.

—Eld. C. K. Marshall, who was pastor of the Lancaster Christian church 20 years ago, since which time he has had a pastorate in Baltimore, has been called to the Harrodsburg church at a salary of $1,500 a year and parsonage, and has accepted.

—Rev. G. H. Means, of the Methodist church South, at Covington, has sued a German paper there for $25,000 damages for an alleged libelous publication charging that Means and an ex-priest named Kolin had conspired to incarcerate the latter's wife in the asylum at Lakeland.

—The Christian Endeavor will hereafter hold its meetings at the Christian church, each Sunday afternoon at 3:30 till further notice. The election of officers Sunday resulted: For president, W. H. Higgins; vice-president, Miss Nannie Baughman; treasurer, Miss Annie Alcorn; secretary, Miss Annie McKinney. There were five entries for president, W. F. McClary, W. H. Shanks, James and J. L. Beazley, but Mr. Higgins beat them just as easy as he could have double the number.

For rheumatism I have found nothing equal to Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It relieves the pain as soon as applied. J. W. Young, West Liberty, W. Va. The prompt relief it affords is alone worth many times its cost, so cents. Its continued use will effect a permanent cure. For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist, Stanford.

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate man, San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for several years as occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says: "I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this remedy at home or on a trip away from home." For sale by Dr. S. G. Hocker, druggist, Stanford.

The last page has been written and the book is sealed! The old year is dead! Its joys and its sorrows; its hopes and its fears; its successes and its failures; its realizations and its disappointments, are buried in the past, to be recalled to memory with pain or pleasures as the events affected. To us, who remember with tenderest love, the dear old father and mother, who never failed to gather their children about them on the eve of the dying year, the season is one of solemn thought and retrospection. Many years have gone by since one of those blessed family reunions were held; the voices of that loving mother and indulgent father have long been stilled in death, but there comes from the echoless past sweetest memories of that hallowed time and we hear again in fancy the prayers that were said and songs that were sung. A favorite hymn for the occasion, and a most appropriate one, was:

And now my soul another year
Of thy short life is past;
I can not long continue here
And this may be my last.
Behold, another year begins!
Set out afresh for heaven;
Seek pardon for thy former sins,
In Christ so freely given.

Years have sped by since they sang it last; their youngest child has been a father two years and more, while gray hairs are coming thick and fast to the oldest, but none of that little family can ever forget those sweet occasions nor fail to think of them as each recurring period hastens its coming.

This is a good time to take a mental as well as a business inventory. We do not put much faith in New Year resolutions as a general thing, because so many resolve and re-resolve and die the same; but we do believe that he is wise who profits by the experiences of the past, and is enabled by them to steer clear of pitfalls and other sins which do so easily beset us. Let us all examine ourselves and find out if we are living up to our advantages or fulfilling our manifest destiny, and above all try to be true to ourselves, and then we can be false to no man.

The year is before us with its illimitable possibilities. Let us improve each shining hour and be better men and women, so that whether the summons comes this year or some other, we will not go like the galley slave scourged to his dungeon.

Wishing that the year may prove one of prosperity and happiness and hoping that those who love us and those who hate may realize a full fruition of their hopes, we enter upon the duties of another year with a stout heart and firm determination to hew to the line, never extenuating nor setting down aught in malice.

May God be with us all and the devil not even get the hindmost.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE'S lecture tour is not proving a bonanza to his depleted pocket book, nor is his pathway strewn with roses. At Cincinnati, a couple of constables jumped through the box office window and secured the receipts to satisfy a local lawyer's claim for $40 due for taking depositions in the noted suit against him. The colonel, his wife and son, Deeba, happening along at the time, and not exactly comprehending the situation, got entangled in the melee, which was of a most sensational nature for a while. The colonel expostulated, Deeba swore and Mrs. Breckinridge thinking an assault was being made on her husband rushed to the scene. Order was finally restored and the colonel, half an hour late, appeared behind the footlights as smooth and as suave as if nothing had happened. A suit against the constables' securities for $10,000 has been filed and Col. Breckinridge is to prosecute it. The Opera House management claims that it paid the colonel to lecture and the receipts could not be seized for his debts.

Those who believe that a fatality hangs about the figures 13 will have fresh cause to nurse their superstition in the following: Lonesome Valley viaduct on the K., C. G. and L. was begun on the 13th of a month and finished on the 13th of a month. It fell on the 13th of a month and killed a man and since then man after man has been killed till last week the fatal 13 was reached. We do not take much stock in the superstition, but all the same we are rather inclined to think that that viaduct is a good place to stay away from.

It takes very little to make some people happy. For instance there was C. J. Christie, of Kalisfell, Mont. Standing with a rope about neck and with the black cap ready to be drawn over his face, he exclaimed, "I am the happiest man on earth. Let her go." There was a dull thud, a convulsive twitching of a pendant form and the soul of the murderer had taken its place in hell, to answer for his crime and atone for the lie that died on his lips.

OLD BORRAS' breath has left its blight from the frozen North to the Sunny South. A windsheet of snow stretches across the country, while the mercury has hovered near zero in Texas and been lower than it has since any record has been kept in Florida, going to 14 at Jacksonville. The orange and vegetable crops are ruined. It is estimated that fully 2,000,000 boxes of oranges are still on the trees and it is said that they have been frozen either wholly or in part. At Atlanta, where it is said an audience once got up en masse and went out of the theatre in which the divine Patti was singing to see the unusual spectacle of a snow storm, they not only have had snow, but a temperature within 4 of zero. Suffering among humans and brutes has been very great and many cases of freezing to death are reported.

Looking back on the year that is past and gone, we discover that it wasn't such a bad old year after all. True, times were pretty hard and money scarce, but there was plenty for all who worked and the farmer, who would not sell his cattle for the price could do like Col. Hill—eat 'em. The year was singularly free from epidemics, pestilences, cyclones and tornadoes, though very productive of bank and business failures. Those who lost, however, were those best able to stand it and few will know they ever lived a hundred years to come. Let us therefore take things as they come with as good grace as possible, thanking God for the good he vouchsafes to us and remembering that things are never so bad that they may not be worse.

THE Satellite ball at the Galt House, Louisville, was a glittering success. Over 700 gentlemen and ladies attended and it was indeed a gathering of beautiful women, whose bright eyes outshone the sparkling diamonds that ornamented their shapely persons. American Beauty roses were in great demand and the supply was soon exhausted at $9 a dozen for short stems and $12 for long. One florist sold 300 and could have disposed of as many more. A dollar a piece is rather steep for flowers, but the beaux who dance attendance on such occasions, must buy them even if they have to rob their employer's cash drawer to do so.

THE State treasury has again suspended payment and it is for an indefinite time. Wont Col. Bradley revel with delight over this when he mounts the ragging stump in his canvass for the governorship? It will be very easy for him to make the masses believe that there has been mismanagement, even if he does not succeed in his own mind in convicting the party in power of greater offenses. By the way they do say that if the colonel carries Kentucky, he will be the next republican nominee for vice-president. We should like to see him honored, but if that is the condition, his chances are very remotely remote.

THE effort to induce Gov. McCreary to run for governor and the complimentary things that are being said about him all over the State by papers and politicians, must be as gratifying to him, as to his friends. No man stands higher than the model governor and the model Congressman in the estimation of patriotic Kentuckians and none is better entitled to honor and respect than he. His whole life has fully demonstrated the truth of the lines: Act well your part, there all the honor lies.

THERE is a rumor that Gov. Brown will call the Legislature into extra session to take steps to relieve the embarrassed condition, which has disturbed the State treasury for many months. Better let us bear the ills we have than fly to others that we know not of. The Legislature will only be an additional expense with a possibility that amounts almost to a probability of making the situation worse.

EDITOR JAMES DENTON, of the Somerset Paragon, treats the talk about his nomination for governor with levity, which is the way all republicans mentioned for the honor but Col. W. O. Bradley should take it. It is a waste of time to consider anybody except the Garrard entry. He is Eclipse, the rest will be no where.

THE income tax law will largely increase the number of collectors. Kentucky will have 17 more. As the office is worth $1,500 there will be a grand rush for it by the noble army of those who desire to serve the government for a quid pro quo.

THE bitter cold spell reminded the Courier-Journal to say that if this is the land of the free and the home of the brave, it is also the land of the freeze and the home of the blizzard.

A WAR among and against the bakers at Cincinnati has forced bread down to 3 cents a loaf. This is good, but what the average Cincinnati most longs for is cheap beer.

—The College presidents in Indiana have decided to forbid inter-collegiate football games.

—Seeley, who stole $354,000 from the National Shoe and Leather Bank at New York, got off with 8 years.

—Near Morehead, Rowan county, Jake Whitaker killed Henry Tyree with an ax and badly wounded Wm. Cole.

—The Mint Registry says that there were 18,570 silver dollars coined in 1894. They are now worth $1,000 each.

—Two negroes were killed and three others mortally wounded in a general fight over a game of craps at Hillhouse, Miss.

—Tramps set fire to the barn belonging to S. M. Stokes, near Russellville. Five horses were burned, together with a lot of feed.

—The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad will enter Louisville from Lexington over the tracks of the Southern railway, beginning about the 5th.

—At Baltimore Edward Harrigan was knocked down in a prize-fight with Edward Swister, and in falling fractured his skull, dying soon after.

—Mrs. Dora Williams, at Rome, Ga., locked her three children in her home and went visiting. Her home and all the children were burned.

—The British bark Osseo and all on board met a terrible fate on Holyhead's Breakwater, near Wales, Sunday. The vessel sank with its entire crew of 24.

—Mrs. D. S. Bloomer, whom the world is disposed to hold responsible for the style of dress bearing her name, died at Council Bluffs, aged 76 years.

—At Elkhart, Ind., the pastor of a Congregational church left his pulpit and pitched a disorderly member of the congregation bodily out of the house.

—Gladstone, the great English statesman, celebrated his 85th birthday Saturday. His mental faculties seem unimpaired and he is still hale and hearty.

—An L. & N. express was wrecked below Nashville. The engineer and fireman were badly scalded, a postal clerk injured and the express and mail cars burned.

—Dudley C. Logan, prominent in business and church affairs, was found dead in his yard at Lexington, with two pistols by him and the tragedy is wrapped in a mystery.

—The Woman's Council and the Nineteenth Century Club, of Memphis, 4,000 strong, adopted a resolution to boycott W. C. P. Breckinridge when he lectures there next week.

—A Lexington stenographer has just completed one man's deposition which contains 90,000 words, a half million letters, covering 300 pages. He was four days and nights writing it.

—The Georgia race war ended without the aid of troops, though they were called out. Five negroes were murdered, though by cowardly white fiends, who deserve to die for their deeds.

—By the explosion of a lamp at a Christmas tree festival in an Oregon village a fire was started that resulted in the death of 41 persons and the injury of 16 others, five of whom will die.

—Ex-Senator Fair, of Nevada, died at San Francisco Saturday. He was worth, according to his own estimate, $38,000 and he said a night or two before he died that he would not suffer as did for all of it.

—The old capitol building at Atlanta burned. It was purchased by the State under the reconstruction regime for $400,000. When the new million dollar capital was built it was sold to Venable Bros. for $125,000.

—The syndicate which brought the last issue of Government bonds has been dissolved. It is said to have disposed of only 35 per cent. of the bonds. The price has declined on the New York market to less than was paid.

—Henry Fecker, a farmer near Piqua, O., did not believe in banks and kept his money in his trunk at home. Burglars called on him and helped themselves to $4,750. They were kind enough to leave $100, which he deposited in bank next day.

—A jury at Huntsville, Ala., awarded the widow of Robert Ross a verdict for $16,000 damages against the Western Union Telegraph Company for failing to deliver a telegram to Ross warning him that an attempt would be made to kill him.

—The largest single mail ever brought across the Atlantic is aboard the Majestic, that arrived Wednesday night at New. It was in 11,672 bags, amounting to something like 200,000 pieces for outward distribution and 50,000 pieces for distribution around New York.

—Reports of great destitution in Western Nebraska are fully confirmed. People living in the section that suffered last summer from drouth are perishing for want of food and fuel. Twelve people have died from cold and starvation and hundreds of families are without fuel.

—A shortage of $14,736 has been found in the accounts of the Tax Collector of Lexington, and the late W. P. Welsh, Deputy Collector, is charged with the embezzlement. He was drowned in the city reservoir last summer and many believe he committed suicide.

OUR SAINTS.

It is not alone from legend and old story, that the saints, crowned with celestial glory, smile down upon us from their height sublime.

Not only from church windows, colored brightly, do their blessed shadows fall across our way. Ah, not alone in niches gleaming whitely, With folded hands do they stand night and day.

Who is there in this wide world who has not, hidden Deep in his heart, a picture clear or faint, Veiled, sacred, to the outer world forbidden, O'er which he bends and murmurs low, "My saint?"

A face perhaps all written o'er with sorrow, Whose faded eyes are dim with unshed tears, And yet they hopefully look toward the morrow, And far beyond it into brighter spheres—

A face whence all the sunshine of the morning And brightness of the noon have passed away, And yet where clearly, surely there is dawn—

A wondrous radiance of that perfect day— That perfect day, when, crowned with heaven's brightness, Without a pain or care or mortal need, With conqueror's palm, in robes of snowy whiteness, Our blessed saints stand as very saints indeed.

Yes, God be thankful, though the pure saints of story, And holy martyrs that the artist paints, Are veiled in radiance and crowned with glory, There still are halos for these unknown saints.

—Outlook.

CUPID AND PSYCHE.

His name upon the ship's books was Edward Braithwaite Colchester, but between Tilbury and Sydney harbor he was better known as Cupid. His mother was a widow, with four more olive branches, absolutely dependent on her own and Teddy's exertions.

At the best of times kindergartens for the children of respectable tradespeople are not particularly remunerative, and the semidetached villa in Rydenham was often sorely tried for petty cash.

But when Teddy was appointed fourth officer of the X. Y. Z. company's steamship Cambrian Prince endless possibilities were opened up.

If you will remember that everything in this world is ordained to a certain end, you will see that Teddy's future entirely depended on his falling in love—first love of course, and not the matter of fact businesslike affair that follows later.

After his second voyage he obtained a fortnight's leave and hastened home. Being fond of tennis and such like amusements, he was naturally brought into contact with many charming girls, who, because he was a strange man and a sailor, were especially polite.

Then he fell hopelessly in love with a horribly impossible girl, and in the excitement of the latest waltz proposed and was accepted on the strength of a fourth officer's pay, an incipient mustache and a dozen or so brass buttons.

During the next voyage his behavior toward unmarried women was marked by that circumspection which should always characterize an engaged man.

He never allowed himself to forget this for an instant, and his cabin had for its chief ornament a plush framed likeness of a young lady gazing with a wistful expression over a palpably photographic sea.

Now, it was necessary for his ultimate happiness that Teddy Colchester should learn that, like his own brass buttons, without constant burnishing a young lady's affection is apt to lose much of its pristine brightness, and that too much sea air is good for neither. He ticked off the days of absence, and as his calendar lessened his affection increased.

At Plymouth a letter met him, a jerky, inky schoolgirl epistle, evidently written by a writer very cold and miserable, and the first reading stunned him.

Had he seen a little more of the real world he would have been able to read between the lines something to this effect: "You're Teddy, three months away, and I'm madly in love with a soldier."

Then he would have noted that the writer was staying in Salisbury, after which he would have hunted up his home papers and discovered that the Royal Wiltshire yeomanry cavalry were encamped at Humington Down.

But as he had only seen life through a telescope he could not do this. Consequently his pain was a trifle acute.

His mother wrote him four pages of sympathy.

But though he wondered at any girl jilting her boy she could not help a feeling of satisfaction at its being still in her power to transmute three-quarters of his pay into food and raiment for her brood.

Next voyage the Cambrian Prince had her full complement of passengers, and the Kangaroo Girl, whom perhaps you may remember, was of the number.

At Plymouth a little reserved girl joined, and as she is considerably mixed up in this story you must know that she rejoiced in the unpretentious name of Hinks.

For the first week or so Teddy held very much aloof from the passengers, engaging himself entirely with recollections of the girl for whose sake he was going to live "only in memory."

Being an honest, straightforward young fellow, he of course followed the prescribed programme of all blighted love affairs. He began by pitying himself for the sorrow he was undergoing, then went on to picture the future that might have been theirs had she married him, but before they were clear of the bay he had arrived at the invariable conclusion and was pitying himself for pitying the girl who was foolish enough to jilt such an entirely estimable young man as Edward Braithwaite Colchester.

One moonlight night, after leaving "Gib," he was leaning over the rails of the promenade deck feeling sympathetically inclined to the world in general when somebody stepped up behind him. It was Miss Hinks. She prefaced her conversation with two or three questions about the sea, and he made the astounding discovery that her voice possessed just the note of sympathy he required for his complaint.

He had felt sorry for her because other people snubbed her, and she for him because she had been told exaggerated stories about his love affair. Together they made rather a curious couple.

When, under the supervision of the Kangaroo Girl, the shore party for Naples was being organized, Miss Hinks was tacitly left out. Somehow the impression got about that she was poor, and no one cared about paying her expenses.

But eventually she did go, and it was in the charge of the fourth officer. When she thanked him for his kindness, he forgot for the moment his pledge "to live henceforth only in a memory."

The Kangaroo Girl, on discovering that Miss Hinks had been on shore under the escort of that "dear little pink officer," was vastly amused and christened them Cupid and Psyche.

Now, the end of it all was that Teddy began to find himself caring less and less for the thetumb stained photograph in his locker and more and more for the privilege of pumping his sorrows into a sympathetic ear.

By the time they reached Aden he had convinced himself that his first love affair had been the result of a too generous nature, and that his second was the one and only real passion of his life.

At Colombo Miss Hinks went ashore with the doctor's party, tiffed at Mount Lavinia, dined at the Grand Oriental and started back for the ship about 9 o'clock.

Teddy, begrimed with coal dust, watched each boatload arrive, and as he did his love increased.

On account of the coal barges it was impossible for boats to come alongside. Consequently their freight had to clamber from hulk to hulk. Miss Hinks was the last of her party to venture, and just as the doctor, holding out his hand, told her to jump the hulk swayed out, and she fell, with a scream, into the void.

Then before any one could realize what had happened the barge rolled back into its place. Miss Hinks had disappeared.

Teddy, from half way up the gangway, tore off his coat, leaped into the water, and at the risk of having his brains knocked out dived and plunged between the boats, but without success. Then he saw something white astern and swam toward it.

The half-drowned couple must have come to an understanding in the rescuing boat, for next day their engagement was announced.

The Kangaroo Girl gave evidence of her wit when she said, "It was fortunate they were Cupid and Psyche; otherwise they would find love rather insufficient capital to begin housekeeping upon."

Teddy wrote to his mother from Adelaide, and she, poor woman, was not best pleased to hear the news. But a surprise was in store for us all.

On the Cambrian Prince's arrival in Sydney Miss Hinks was met by an old gentleman, who, it appeared, was her solicitor. On being informed of the engagement he examined Teddy with peculiar interest and asked if he were aware of his good fortune. Miss Hinks smiled.

Half an hour later we learned that the girl whom we'd been pitying for her poverty was none other than Miss Hinks-Graton, the millionairess and owner of innumerable station and town properties.

The Teddy of today is a director of half a dozen shipping companies, and he quite agrees with me "that everything in this world is ordained to a certain end."—Pall Mall Gazette.

How to Preserve Old Manuscripts.

The paper or document, after being cleaned or brushed, is washed on both sides with a transparent adhesive solution. Sheets of imported white silk of the most delicate fabric, large enough to give an ample margin or border to surround the document to be preserved, are then placed on each side of the record and pressed. The pressure causes the silk to adhere closely to the document, which is then treated to a coating of paraffin for the purpose of bringing out and making more legible the writing thereon. This process seals the document permanently from any danger of disintegration or fading of the ink, and also is a protection against insects or mice, which might prey upon the ancient records.

How He Tells the Time.

"My father," said the small boy to the woman who was calling on his mother, "is a great man. He knows what time it is without even looking at his watch."

"What do you mean, Tommy?" queried the visitor.

"Oh, when I holler out an ask him what time it is in the mornin', he allus says it's time to get up. An when I ask him what time it is in the evenin' he allus says, 'Time to go to bed, Tommy.' Oh, I tell you my father is a great man."—Waterbury.

A Merciful Robber.

The citizen struggled. "Let me alone, or I will call the police!" he cried.

The highway robber wavered. "Do you mean it?" he demanded.

"Yes."

"You will really call the police?"

"Most assuredly."

The outlaw turned on his heel and walked away.

"I don't want to be the cause of his getting clabbed," he said.—Detroit Tribune.
